- The Kimberley Perspective -

B R O O M E

An initiative of the
Broome Chamber of Commerce

23rd - 24th September 2009

Cable Beach Club Resort - Sam Male Room

By all accounts the Kimberley region is entering a period of substantial and sustained economic growth which will bring opportunities for business in the region that have not been considered to date.

There are indications that Australia and our major trading partners are starting to emerge from the global financial crisis and this will bring with it demand for the wide range of goods and services that can be sourced from the Kimberley region.

We can expect growth across the board in mineral and petroleum exploration and production, agriculture and horticulture and tourism.

Economic growth will bring with it significant change and this will create challenges to ensure that the requisite hard and social infrastructure is in place to support growth of the region.

Existing and new industries will face changed paradigms for doing business where government will often be the instigator of development programs and may set minimum standards for exploitation of resources.

Investment aspirations and previous ways of doing business will need to take into account higher government and community expectations for the management of the environment and the protection of the diverse attributes of our regional culture and heritage. Education and training of young indigenous people will continue as a significant economic activity.

The program for the 2009 Kimberley Economic Forum is a matrix of issues that will enable participants to obtain a deep insight into how the region's economic future will unfold.

Don't miss it!
